STYLE & WINEMAKING

Our single-vineyard wines are made only when a site reveals something extraordinary. With Saffron Fields, our job is restraint: small-lot fermentations, a lighter hand in the cellar and extended aging in French oak, so the vineyard's own voice comes through rather than ours. It's a personality worth sharing, bottled on its own.

VINTAGE NOTES

Heavy rain in mid-June banked soil moisture just before a record late-June heat dome; because ripening hadn't begun, the vines came through largely unharmed. A long, dry summer followed, and Yamhill-Carlton's free-draining marine sediments kept berries small and concentrated. The first notable rain in over 90 days arrived September 18, and cooler fall weather let flavors catch up before harvest.
